Golden days

MORE and more Buddies are coining in cash by selling their old gold at Tupperware-style parties in private houses, according to new research.

The parties, organised by the Ounces2Pounds organisation, have become a phenomenon in the United Kingdom and America.

According to bosses at Ounces2Pounds, an increasing number of people in the Renfrewshire area have been offloading unwanted gold, silver and platinum items that have long ceased to serve their purpose.
